Public Men I Have Known

Public Men I Have Known
No. 4
By C. F. Whitman

There was a great rail storm in October, 1869—roads were badly galled in Norway and the freshest. A suit for damages away in the town by one of the industrial interests resulted from it. One William Virgil of Virginia, the eldest lawyer of the Oxford Bar at that time was counsel for the town. Mr. Henry M. Beare, I believe brought the suit. The matter might have been settled for a small amount, but Mr. Virgil did not think so. The town ought to be mulched in damages because the case went to trial Virgil had been appointed one of the judges of the Supreme Judicial Court and trial took place, was substituted.

A. A. Strout, Portland, one of the most astute jury lawyers of his day was secured to manage the Plaintiff's side but no one was engaged with Black and the case was for Strout in the man being no action before jurors, the agreement was made between the town of $200. This did not surprise me, I had heard before my admission to the bar several of the cases in which the town had been beaten and the impression always on my mind, which subsequent events did not change was if one lawyer to take great care of his client, he was to take great care of him to manage it, he had been told to do so.

Mr. Black had the reputation of being a good counselor but a poor jury lawyer. He had served as clerk of the court for three years, from that time he had learned all the different methods of law in a closely contested case. The following good story is in point: Mr. Black took two actions to trial: Mr. Black took the court and the old court house on Park Street where old Nat Littlefield, an old horse of his party and an ex-Member of Congress whom Black looked up to as a leader, was present. In the first case, George H. Harlow was counsel for the defendant and Eldridge G. Harlow for the defendant in the other action. The first case was tried and given to the jury and when it returned the verdict, Nat said to me, "I think I shall win this case."

"Why do you think so, Al?"

"Well, I've brought out the evidence pretty well and I think I ought to win the verdict."

"Ah, Al, you never can tell what jury will do." The fact was, Littlefield had heard the whole trial and had thought Black would find his case and it proved true.

After the second action had been given to the jury Black confidently said to Littlefield, "I'm going to win this case."

"What makes you think so, Alvy?" was the rejoinder.

"Oh, the jurymen are a more intelligent set of men, Mr. Littlefield," he replied.

"Well, well, Alvy, it isn't best to lean too much on that." "No, then Black would be beaten in that case and when the jury returned with a verdict for the defendant he said to the other lawyer, "What do you say now, Alvy?"

Black shrugged his shoulders and saying his best-guess to one side he smiled an unsavory order for champagne.

"This only goes to show how faulty

Stephen D. Hutchinson was a New ern man with Southern principles.
 was born in Hebron in 1812, removed Buckfield where he served as town clerk for many years and having been elected register of deeds in 1846, settled

Paris Hill, where after he went out office January 1, 1958 he kept a car the rest of his life. He was in the place of record for the faithful dreamer of the return of the old peaceful days "befo' the war" which came. Always when a young man went to Paris Hill, he was invariably treated kindly as I was from Buckfield and never failed to give me an interesting chapter out of his book of life. Of course I didn't know any of the curious men he related about men and the colorizing I made allowance for. I may here say, that barring his own political faith, he was a true patriot and citizen. He once said this "my grandfather was a rebel man am I."

He was very bitter against the he thought who once belonged to his natal party and who left it on the easy and run issues and finally drove of power. These were Hamilton H. Col. Wm. K. Kimball and Wm. W. Wright and Henry R. Hemenway.

Hamlin, he said had negro blood in Walton was an unscrupulous trifler of a lawyer and judge, and Kinsley, Adams and Hammond, were his political allies. These notions of course only showed his passions and hatred, arising from the loss of defeat. Such as he did not know, hand, and the law did not go. Hutchinson was beaten for real as register of deeds by Alden C. Woodstock in 1857 by some 350 and As the law then was it was the duty of the court to give a certificate of election to the one chosen. The law didn't just when the votes should be taken. The meetings of the courts were held in May, September and November. Hoping to hold on from J. to May, a period of four months of Chase's term Hutchinson, through the aid of Mr. Blackwell, was elected as clerk of the courts set up so that the votes should be tabular the meeting of the commission May.

Rufus K. Goodenow, who clerked of courts and a Congressmen Chase's counsel and he held the commissioners at their meeting center should alert. The Commission to hold the courts of the law, and

W. Walton, and his decision was considering their views of more than Black's, counted the votes and sent a certificate of election to the first day of January 1880. But another complication arose. The first day of January 1880, when Chase found the door to theistry locked, and that Hutchinson the key in his pocket and refused to give it up to Chase. Walton was at the second time, took off the key, and the astute counsel "I'll go on one and stay in the office for a few and await results." This was done. Chase having begun the performance of his duties which continuing for some time without opposition, he went and went nights to his boarding. Hutchinson and his legal adviser, again beaten. In relating the episode, Hutchinson said: "Chase has the other like a burr under the saddle of his opponents." "Blowing the crowd bar party." "Our family like Chase very much, being a brother of his—him—but Hutchinson's peculiar opinion of his opponents, caused laughter heartily.

The lawyers in Oxford County were the first class whom I have seen. Walton, Virgin, and I saw David R. Hastings, and three of the appointed judges, Swaney was moderate by temperament for a judge, but Hastings was, in my judgment, more than have attained any number of new judges.

Mothers' Club Organized

A Mothers' Club has been organized under the supervision of Mrs. Laura Best, who is the state field nurse for this district. The first meeting was held in the schoolhouse, Wednesday, Nov. 21. Officers were elected with Mrs. Jessie Noyes as president; Mrs. Irene Walker, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Cross, press correspondent.

The first meeting proved very successful, there being fifteen mothers present, but it is hoped that the next meeting will have double this number. At the opening of the meeting, Mrs. Best gave a very fine talk explaining the nature of her work, showing the difference between a state field nurse and a Red Cross nurse. The first lesson was on bathing and dressing the baby. It was most helpful as Mrs. Best had all necessary equipment for the baby and its bath. There are many lessons to follow, which should be of vital interest to mothers. Mrs. Best wishes the members to come prepared to ask questions and of course the more questions asked the more discussion created.

Mrs. Best is a very efficient nurse, having a very pleasing personality and especially fine way of explaining some of the difficult problems to mothers. Mrs. Noyes, who has been elected president, will be an energetic worker, too, as she is a graduate nurse and very competent in her work.

Mrs. Best wishes it to be made known that not only mothers are invited to these meetings, but anyone who is interested in the promotion of child welfare. Pamphlets will be given from time to time which will prove most helpful. This literature is sent out by the State Department of Health. Any mother who feels well repaid for the time spent at these meetings, which are only held once a month. The next meeting will be Thursday, Dec. 14, at the village schoolhouse.

RHEUMATISM BANISHED BY

Buxton's
Rheumatic Specific

Dear Mr. Buxton: I wish to say a few words of praise for your Rheumatic Specific.
My wife and I both had Rheumatism in arms
and shoulders and suffered a great deal of pain.
Your Specific banished it entirely and everything disappeared. My friends, to whom I have recommended the Specific received the same good results. I think that Buxton's Specific is a wonderful Rheumatic Medicine and a fine tonic as well. You may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish.

Sincerely yours,

NORWAY VICINITY

Ben Richardson has moved his family to Mechanic Falls onto the premises Mrs. Richardson inherited by will from the late Mrs. Mary A. Packard. They plan to repair the buildings, keep poultry and raise garden truck and small fruit. Negotiations are in progress for the sale of the Richardson place on Whitman St. The new sign hung on the Grange Hall Saturday completes the exterior improvements, including painting started there two months ago.
Some three inches of snow that arrived November 22 provided sliding and skiing for the youngsters and slippery roads for motorists.
Howard D. Lasselle is making good recovery from a large carbuncle located on the back of his neck.
Howard H. Potter, civil engineer, and Stanley Murch, his assistant, have been surveying a few days in Dixfield.
A squall lasting most of Sunday brought nearly two inches of snow and rapid drop in temperature. A stiff breeze in the evening and night made real winter conditions.
Bob Whitman, shipping clerk at the Norway Shoe Co., J. E. Hammond, head clerk, and Philip King, freight clerk, at the G. T. B. station, and L. H. Cushman, truckman, were called to Hammond, Ind., Saturday night, to testify in a case involving the larceny of goods shipped by the Norway Shoe Co., to the western coast some three years ago. They expect to return the last of the week.

D. OF V. MEETING

Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent, Daughters of Union Veterans, held an interesting and well attended meeting, Friday evening. Nomination of officers took place and election occurs at the next meeting. An invitation to visit Judith Grover Tent, at Bryant Pond, Tuesday evening, Nov. 27, was accepted and plans made to attend. The mystery box fell to Mrs. Ida Kimball Poland. "Veterans' Night" which was designated for observance on November 19, was commemorated with appropriate program.
Several old time songs were sung. Mrs. Ada Treask read an original poem, "The Little Brown Button," a verse duet was given by Mrs. Betty Jacobs and Miss Etta Hussey. "The Soldier's Tribute." The 65th anniversary of the dedication of the Gettysburg Memorial Cemetery, which occurred November 19, 1863, was also observed. G. Julian Brown, son of a Civil War veteran, gave a talk on the dedication, and also a history of the battle of Gettysburg, as he has visited the cemetery and also the battlefield, and has made a study of the history.
It was found that five members and one son of a veteran present at the meeting had fathers who were in the 17th Maine regiment. Several incidents were told by other members of the Tent that were of interest. It was hoped that several of the old Veterans would be able to be present, but Comrade Charles C. Brackett was the only one on hand. After the meeting, lunch was served.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM ICY PLUNGE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Haines of Lynn, Mass., narrowly escaped death in Little Androscoggin River, Saturday, when their car skidded and crashed through a fence into a pole carrying high tension power wires. The car was brought to a sudden stop on the brink of a steep bank that dropped abruptly into the river some 25 feet below. The occupants were shaken up, but not seriously hurt.
The Haines, on their way to Norway for the week end, were approaching the covered bridge on the state highway, two miles below Norway Village when the automobile skidded on the icy concrete near the brow of the hill leading to the entrance. By a piece of good fortune, the pole averted a plunge into the deep river and possibly death.
Very little damage was done to the auto. A garage crew working on another wreck nearby, rendered assistance.

But there is only one gold medal offered in the Licentiate section at each examination. Miss Allen is entitled to add "Lic. Mus. D. M. C." after her name in the future. R. L. Sturges' sale stable has been one of the busy places since a car of Western horses arrived. A crowded house gave the players a fine reception and many compliments.

This brief list may be suggestive—if not, take a 15-minute stroll through this store—and confide in one of our men what you'd like to give. He'll find the answer. At a price you want to pay, too.

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History - a Six in the price range of the four!

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History... a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past... notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field an entirely new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor, with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding... even to those who have been driving cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

Throughout the entire speed range, it performs with a smoothness and quietness of operation that have never before been approached in a low-priced automobile. At the slower speeds of city traffic it idles along with wonderful silence and ease. On boulevards and country roads it responds with an eagerness that is a constant delight. It takes the longest and steepest hills with an abundant reserve of power that is a source of pride to the driver. And its economy of operation averages better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

This revolutionary performance has been achieved as a result of the greatest array of engineering advancements that Chevrolet has ever announced. A high compression, non-detonating cylinder head... a new heavier crankshaft, statically and dynamically balanced... automatic lubrication of the entire rocker arm mechanism... semi-automatic spark control... hot-spot manifold... gasoline pump and filter... new and larger carburetor, with automatic acceleration pump and improved venturi choke... fabric camshaft gear... heavier driving gears... heavier differential gears... improved crankcase breathing system... improved lubrication... new 4-wheel brakes that are powerful, safe and quiet under all conditions—these indicate the importance of a group of engineering advancements that embrace every major unit of the entire chassis.

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations. The new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers.

With their modish new colors, their smart dual mouldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equalled in motor car design.

You are cordially invited to visit our showroom and secure complete and detailed information on this sensational new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

Granite State Sermon.

Comments, Conclusion, Questions and Gestures by Our Staff Writer, F. E. Mitchell

"The Human Sacrifice," by Don G. Seitz, in your issue of November 23, was timely. And here is a most remarkable physiological fact: If saloons were legal and the use of liquor was responsible for 1-100 of the accidents and deaths that automobiles cause there would be an upsurge of the Good People such as we have never known.

Or if disease should appear with fatalities but a minimum compared to those caused by automobiles a wave of genuine fear and horror would sweep the country. But the automobile—the curse of our time, which is rapidly draining the resources of the people—is looked upon as a blessing. Can you explain this?

Am still busy with alterations and repairs of our water system. Up at five these cold mornings, away to work at 6.30. Strenuous but necessary. Fall asleep the moment my head is on the pillow, and Old Dame Nature fixes me up all right for the next day.

Half-tones of Hoover and Curtis came out fine; were well placed. The Advertiser looks just what it is: an aristocratic elite newspaper.

"A man's feet trip upon mole-hills, not mountains," patient observation. We boast of what? Birth, lineage—and our ancestors spared frogs from the slime.

We are egotistical, conceited—and cruel. We are hypocrites and liars. Even our religion is a sham. We preach about love and brotherhood, freedom and equality, but our words are merely empty sounds. We even mock our own Commandments. One God! We worship two—Biblical and Pseudo.

As Baptists, we look upon our shadows as the substance of all that is high and good, ignoring the fact that there are more than 475 million Catholics, 209 million Mohammedans, nearly 400 million Confucianists and Taoists, and nearly sixteen million Jews—and that the majority of these are more loyal to their faith and more devout in their worship than ourselves.

However, as the Chinese philosopher stated: "Time and space are but the hearts of men and that all other things tend to show the benevolence of Heaven toward the human race."

To do something—something that will be an improvement, a benefit, should be the universal aim. Our educators give no evidence that they have heard of them. They turn out houseplant plans, Herbert Kaufman has written: "The ability to memorize the intellectual and industrial exploits of all the constructive folk since Adam is not nearly so valuable to the world as was the clipping of flint to an edge, or the astounding notion of twisting entrails into a howling."

It is said that Hoover will visit South America in the interest of Big Business. This is a good thought. England and Germany have hitherto had the bulk of Latin America's business. We have men and machinery, we can supply the merchandise. Let us hope that as President Mr. Hoover will do much to push our forward in a business sense and that he will not make us pay 25 cents a pound for sugar while Canadians can buy it for six cents.

Old folks have a right to criticize and find flaws. It is their chief pleasure. It is said that Adam remarked to his grandson, "Things are going to the dogs. When I was a boy young people behaved themselves."

What a fine world this is—music and love and laughter for all who seek intelligently.—F. E. Mitchell.

KEZAR FALLS

Rev. Arthur Callaghan was called to Long Island, Nov. 16th, to officiate at the funeral of Mrs. Georgia Middleton Oshing, whose happy, helpful girlhood was spent in this town.

Since her marriage to Mr. Oshing, Long Island has been her home and the attainments and characteristics which so endeared her to people here were simply transferred and she kept on the even tenor of her way doing good and not evil all the days of her life.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Oshing leaves several children, one sister and three brothers and many devoted friends to mourn their loss.

William Riley, an employee of the Kezar Falls Woolen Company, sank to rest after a long sickness. About eight months ago he was in a hospital but his trouble could not be alleviated and returning to his home, received every attention from a faithful physician, loving wife and sympathetic neighbors. Services conducted by Rev. Arthur Callaghan were held at his home. "Sometimes We'll Understand" was sung by Mrs. Elwood Elliott and W. T. Norton. Among the floral offerings was a pillow inscribed with the words "We'll understand" and a fine piece of friends in the woolen mill. Interment was in the Cornish Riverside Cemetery, as he had noticed its well kept appearance and had observed to his wife "that is where I should like to be buried." His every word was sacred to her and it is as he wished. The bearers were Frank Hubbard, Roland Stanley, Fairfield McDonald and Frank Goodwin.

The L. M. R. G. observed Gentlemen's Night on the evening of November 17th, in Cornish, at the New Lincoln. One of the hotel's famous dinners was served at seven o'clock to which full justice was done by forty hungry people. As soon as the guests were fully recovered from the onslaught on the viands, music was next on the program and an impromptu orchestra was quickly formed from among the guests. Frank Lord, violin; John Garner, saxophone; Florence G. Norton, piano, with Mrs. Frank Lord as leader.

They had a very harmonious, enjoyable evening and it was without infringing on the Sabbath and hope to repeat the experience in the near future.

Miss Annie Hughes of Woodfords was the guest for a week of Mrs. Aleen Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Chellis took a trip to Lewiston lately to visit some friends who repaid the friendly interest by kidnapping Mrs. Chellis for the rest of the week, thereby forcing Mr. Chellis to take his homeward way by "his own lone some."

A student in Porter High has an editorial in the school paper. "The Outlook" one sentence of which reads: "The news of boys and girls in sports mean a great deal to the name of the school to which they belong."

Don't Neglect a Cough

A neglected cough can lead to a lot of trouble. But if you use Adamson's Balsam the first thing—there's no danger.

The first dose relaxes strained throat muscles, breaks up and expels phlegm and soothes inflamed membranes. It stops the coughing. Other ingredients, acting through the blood attack the germ at seat of trouble and in a day or two all danger is gone. Adamson's Balsam contains 75c.

existence. This fall the members are employing cars for aid on long trips so that none may faint by the wayside before they are hardened in. On Armistice Day, the Club was entertained by Mrs. Evelyn Stone and Mrs. Doris Stearns. Ninety energetic and healthy members boarded cars and rode to Mansfield LaBaron's place at West Lovell. From there on, they walked fully three-fourths mile to Stearns' camp on McKean Hill and partook of a dinner of "hot dogs," cookies, cheese, doughnuts, coffee, etc. Seeing as they were in training, it was thought advisable to go careful on eats. However, some of the more delicate were glad when the cars were reached on the return home. A great time was had by all.

In very cold weather it is a good plan to gather the eggs twice a day to avoid their freezing.
